Senses is an educational podcast series focused on those who have a disability due to the loss of a sense.

In this episode, we focus on the sense of sight. We hear from to Ben, a student at the University of Lincoln who is visually impaired and shows how he copes with being a visually impaired student. We also spoke to a charity called the Lincoln and Lindsey Blind Society who aim to help people like Ben to live a more comfortable and independent life. As well as Di Vaughan who is one of the founders of the group Social Paws which is a social group for guide dog owners providing support to those who are visually impaired.
